Amendment 1
RECITAL 6 a (new)

(6a) The possibility of choosing the law applicable to divorce and to legal separation should not harm the interests of the child.
Justification

Articles 12 and 13 of Regulation No 2201/2003 also apply to the choice of jurisdiction. Hence it is essential that the interests of the child be taken into consideration.

Amendment 2
RECITAL 6 b (new)

(6b) Before the competent jurisdiction and the applicable law are designated, it is important for the spouses to have access to up-to-date information concerning the essential aspects of national and Community law and of the procedures relating to divorce and legal separation. In order to safeguard such access to information of an appropriate quality, the Commission must regularly update the information contained in the public Internet-based information system set up by means of Council Decision No 2001/470/EC of 28 May 2001 establishing a European Judicial Network in civil and commercial matters.

Justification

It must be ensured that the choice made by the parties is an enlightened one, i.e. that both spouses are duly informed of the practical implications of their choice. With this in mind, consideration should be given to the best way of ensuring that comprehensive, reliable information is made available to the signatories of the agreement on the assignment of competence before the act is signed.

Amendment 3
RECITAL 6 c (new)

(6c) The possibility of choosing by common agreement the jurisdiction and the applicable law should be without prejudice to the rights of, and equal opportunities for, the two spouses. Hence judges in the Member States should be aware of the importance of an enlightened choice on the part of the two spouses concerning the legal implications of the agreement concluded.

Justification

It must be ensured that the choice made by the parties is an enlightened one, i.e. that both spouses are duly informed of the practical implications of their choice. All the authorities must ensure that both spouses are aware of the implications of their agreement.

Amendment 4
RECITAL 7 a (new)

(7a) The meaning of the term 'habitual residence' should be interpreted in accordance with the purposes of this Regulation. It should be determined by the judge in each individual case and on the basis of facts. The term does not refer to a concept of 'habitual residence' pursuant to national law but, rather, to a separate concept established in Community law.

Amendment 5
RECITAL 9 a (new)

(9a) The enlightened consensus of the two spouses is a basic principle of this Regulation. Each partner in the couple should know exactly what legal and social implications follow from the choice of jurisdiction and of applicable law.
Justification

It is possible that, under the rule governing the conflict of laws, the law of another Member State may be designated. In such a case the judge must apply the foreign law, which may cause problems for the jurisdictions concerned. Provision must also be made for the judge to be able to consult an appropriate source.

Amendment 6
ARTICLE 1, POINT (1)
Title (Regulation (EC) No 2201/2003)

(1) the title is replaced by the following: “Council Regulation (EC) N° 2201/2003 concerning jurisdiction and the recognition and enforcement of judgments in matrimonial matters and the matters of parental responsibility as well as applicable law in matrimonial matters”.

Amendment 7
ARTICLE 1, POINT (2)
Article 3a, paragraph 1, point (a) (Regulation (EC) No 2201/2003)

(a) any of the grounds of jurisdiction listed in Article 3 applies, or

Justification

The precise moment at which the criteria apply must be specified.
Amendment 8
ARTICLE 1, POINT (2)
Article 3a, paragraph 1, point (b) (Regulation (EC) No 2201/2003)

(b) at the time when the agreement is concluded, it is the Member State in which the spouses have had their habitual residence for a minimum period of three years, provided that this situation did not come to an end more than three years before the jurisdiction was seised, or

Justification
The precise moment at which the criteria apply must be specified.

Amendment 9
ARTICLE 1, POINT (2)
Article 3a, paragraph 1, point (c) (Regulation (EC) No 2201/2003)

(c) at the time when the agreement is concluded, one of the spouses is a national of that Member State or, in the case of the United Kingdom and Ireland, has his or her “domicile” in the territory of one of the latter Member States.

Justification
The precise moment at which the criteria apply must be specified.

Amendment 10
ARTICLE 1, POINT (2)
Article 3a, paragraph 2 (Regulation (EC) No 2201/2003)

2. An agreement conferring jurisdiction shall be expressed in writing, dated and signed by both spouses at the latest at the time the court is seised."

However, if the law of the Member State in which one of the spouses has his or her habitual residence at the time when the agreement is concluded stipulates additional formal requirements for such agreements, those requirements must be met. If the spouses have their habitual residence in different Member States whose respective laws stipulate additional formal requirements, the agreement shall be valid if it meets the requirements of one of those laws. If the agreement forms part of a marriage contract, the formal requirements of that contract must be met.

Justification

This provides clarification in situations in which the law of a Member State or the marriage contract stipulates stricter requirements than those laid down in the Regulation.

Amendment 11
ARTICLE 1, POINT (3)
Articles 4 and 5 (Regulation (EC) No 2201/2003)

(3) In Articles 4 and 5, the terms “Article 3” are replaced by the terms “Articles 3 and 3a”.

Amendment 12
ARTICLE 1, POINT (5)
Article 7, point (a) (Regulation (EC) No 2201/2003)

(a) the spouses had their common previous habitual residence in the territory of that Member State for at least three years; or

Justification

'Forum shopping' must be avoided.

(a) the spouses previously had their habitual residence in the territory of that Member State for at least three years, provided that that period does not precede the seizure of the jurisdiction by more than three years; or
Amendment 13
ARTICLE 1, POINT (5)
Article 7a (new) (Regulation (EC) No 2201/2003)

Article 7a

Forum necessitatis
Where the jurisdiction which is competent pursuant to this Regulation is located in a Member State under whose law there is no provision for divorce or the existence or the validity of the marriage in question is not recognised, jurisdiction shall be granted to:
(a) the Member State of which one of the spouses is a national; or
(b) the Member State in which the marriage took place.

Justification

This amendment serves to regulate situations in which – pursuant to the criteria laid down in Articles 3, 3a and 7 of the Regulation – the jurisdiction granted does not provide for divorce or does not recognise the existence or the validity of the marriage in question.

Amendment 14
ARTICLE 1, POINT (6)
Article 12, paragraph 1 (Regulation (EC) No 2201/2003)

(6) In Article 12 (1), the terms “Article 3” are replaced by the terms “Articles 3 and 3a”.

(3) In Article 12 (1), the terms “Article 3” are replaced by the terms “Articles 3, 3a and 7”.

Amendment 15
ARTICLE 1, POINT (7)
Article 20 a, title (Regulation (EC) No 2201/2003)

Choice of law by the parties

Amendment 16
ARTICLE 1, POINT (7)
Article 20 a, paragraph 1, point (-a) (new) (Regulation (EC) No 2201/2003)

(-a) the law of the State in which the spouses have their habitual residence at the time when the agreement is concluded;

Justification

It seems rational that this criterion should be included with the others for the purpose of choosing the applicable law.

Amendment 17
ARTICLE 1, POINT (7)
Article 20 a, paragraph 1, point (a) (Regulation (EC) No 2201/2003 )

(a) the law of the State of the last common habitual residence of the spouses insofar as one of them still resides there;
(a) the law of the State of habitual residence of the spouses insofar as one of them still resides there at the time when the agreement is concluded;

Justification

The precise moment at which the criteria apply must be specified.

Amendment 18
ARTICLE 1, POINT (7)
Article 20 a, paragraph 1, point (b) (Regulation (EC) No 2201/2003 )

(b) the law of the State of the nationality of either spouse, or, in the case of United Kingdom and Ireland, the “domicile” of either spouse;
(b) the law of the State of the nationality of either spouse, or, in the case of United Kingdom and Ireland, the “domicile” of either spouse at the time when the agreement is concluded;

Justification

The precise moment at which the criteria apply must be specified.

Amendment 19
ARTICLE 1, POINT (7)
Article 20 a, paragraph 1, point (c) (Regulation (EC) No 2201/2003 )

(c) the law of the State where the spouses have resided for at least five years;
(c) the law of the State where the spouses have previously had their habitual residence for at least three years;
Justification

It seems somewhat arbitrary to have criteria of different lengths stated in Article 20a(1)(c), Article 3a(1)(b) and Article 7(a). The rapporteur is proposing that the periods should all be three years in length.

Amendment 20
ARTICLE 1, POINT (7)
Article 20a, paragraph 1, point c (a) (new) (Regulation (EC) No 2201/2003)

(ca) the law of the State in which the marriage took place;

Justification

It seems rational that this criterion should be included with the others for the purpose of choosing the applicable law.

Amendment 21
ARTICLE 1, POINT (7)
Article 20a, paragraph 2 (Regulation (EC) No 2201/2003)

2. An agreement designating the applicable law shall be expressed in writing and be signed by both spouses at the latest at the time the court is seised.

However, if the law of the Member State in which one of the spouses has his or her habitual residence at the time when the agreement is concluded stipulates additional formal requirements for such agreements, those requirements must be met. If the spouses have their habitual residence in different Member States whose respective laws stipulate additional formal requirements, the agreement shall be valid if it meets the requirements of one of those laws.

If the agreement forms part of a marriage contract, the formal requirements of that contract must be met.
Justification

This provides clarification in situations in which the law of a Member State or the marriage contract stipulates stricter requirements than those laid down in the Regulation.

Amendment 22
ARTICLE 1, POINT (7)
Article 20 a, paragraph 2 a (new) (Regulation (EC) No 2201/2003)

2a. If the lex fori so provides, the spouses may designate the applicable law before the court in the course of the procedure. In such a case it shall be sufficient that the above-mentioned agreement be acknowledged before the court.

Amendment 23
ARTICLE 1, POINT (7)
Article 20 b, point (a) (Regulation (EC) No 2201/2003)

(a) where the spouses have their common habitual residence, or failing that, (a) where the spouses have their habitual residence at the time when the jurisdiction is seised, or failing that,

Justification

The precise moment at which the criteria apply must be specified.

Amendment 24
ARTICLE 1, POINT (7)
Article 20 b, point (b) (Regulation (EC) No 2201/2003)

(b) where the spouse had their last common habitual residence insofar as one of them still resides there, or failing that, (b) where the spouses had their habitual residence insofar as one of them still resides there at the time when the jurisdiction is seised, or failing that,

Justification

The precise moment at which the criteria apply must be specified.

Amendment 26
ARTICLE 1, POINT 7

Article 20 e a (new) (Regulation (EC) No 2201/2003)

Article 20 e a

The Member States shall notify the Commission of any subsequent change to those rules.

2. The Commission shall make available to the public the information which has been notified to it pursuant to paragraph

I by means of appropriate measures, in particular the European Judicial Network in civil and commercial matters.

¹ Three months after the date upon which this Regulation comes into force.

Justification

It must be ensured that the choice made by the parties is an enlightened one, i.e. that both spouses are duly informed of the practical implications of their choice. With this in mind, consideration should be given to the best way of ensuring that comprehensive, reliable information is made available to the signatories of the agreement on the assignment of competence before the act is signed.
EXPLANATORY STATEMENT

The purpose of this proposal for a Regulation is to establish a clear, comprehensive legal framework covering both rules relating to jurisdiction and the recognition and enforcement of judgments in matrimonial matters and the rules relating to the applicable law, by allowing the parties a certain degree of autonomy.

An 'international' couple wishing to get divorced has hitherto been subject to the competence rules laid down in Council Regulation (EC) No 2201/20031 (known as 'Brussels IIa'), pursuant to which spouses are able to choose amongst a number of different competence criteria. Once a divorce procedure comes before the courts of a Member State, the applicable law is determined in accordance with that State's rules on conflicts of law. Those rules vary greatly from one Member State to another.

The disparate nature of those rules combined with the current Community provisions on the awarding of competence may give rise to a number of problems where 'international' divorces are concerned. In addition to the lack of legal certainty stemming from the difficulty which spouses have in determining which law will apply to their case2, there is a risk (which the Commission regards as real) of a 'dash to court' - an expression denoting a situation in which the better informed spouse will attempt to seize the jurisdiction whose law best serves his or her interests. Furthermore, Community citizens resident in a non-EU country may have difficulty in finding a jurisdiction which is competent to deal with divorce and in securing recognition in their respective countries of origin of a divorce settlement granted in a non-EU country.

The purpose of a Commission proposal is to limit the above risks and to compensate for the above shortcomings, in particular by making it possible for the parties to choose by common agreement the competent jurisdiction and the applicable law.

Choice of Jurisdiction

Article 3a makes it possible for spouses to designate by common agreement the competent jurisdiction in their divorce procedure. It has the undoubted advantage of increasing the parties' degree of autonomy and enabling them to seise freely (in accordance with certain competence criteria) the jurisdiction with which they have the most links. First and foremost, it must be ensured that the competence criterion is worded with sufficient strength and accuracy without becoming pointlessly restrictive. However, your rapporteur is proposing to add Article 7a, which governs situations in which (pursuant to the Article 3, 3a and 7 criteria) the jurisdiction assigned has no provision for divorce or does not recognise the existence or validity of the marriage in question.

2 In this connection, see document SEC (2006) 949 of 17.7.2006, p. 5
Choice of applicable law

Article 20a constitutes an innovation in that for the first time, it allows the spouses to designate by common agreement the law applicable in their divorce procedure. According to the rapporteur it makes sense to allow the possibility of choosing the law of the State in which the spouses have their habitual residence at the time when the agreement is concluded, and also the law of the State in which the marriage took place.

Furthermore, the lack of correspondence between Article 20a and Articles 3, 3a and 7 in terms of duration criteria may be questioned. According to the rapporteur, extending the period of residence in Article 20a seems somewhat arbitrary, for which reason she is proposing to make three years the standard duration.

Enlightened choice

It then has to be ensured that the choice made by the parties is an enlightened one, i.e. that both spouses have been duly informed of the practical implications of their choice. In this regard, consideration needs to be given to the best way of ensuring that comprehensive reliable information is made available to the secretaries of the agreement on the assignment of competence before the act is signed. Access to information must also be provided, irrespective of each spouse's financial situation. It must be ensured that both spouses receive comprehensive accurate information concerning the implications of their choice of jurisdiction and the law applicable to divorce, especially since the Member States' laws differ considerably in a number of respects (such as the grounds for divorce, the forms which divorce takes, the terms and conditions for obtaining a divorce, the requisite separation period and other key aspects for the procedure). Furthermore, since laws do change, it may be that an agreement designating the applicable law which was signed at a given moment no longer meets the legitimate expectations of the parties at the time at which it should deploy its effects, since the legislation of the Member State in question has in the meantime been amended.

The rapporteur is proposing a mechanism under which the Commission would be responsible for a public Internet-based information system (operating in connection with the European Judicial Network in civil and commercial matters), where anyone may find up-to-date information concerning the basic aspects of national and Community law. Furthermore, the jurisdiction seised must realise how important an enlightened choice on the part of both spouses is.
