

monday

Honor Code Report

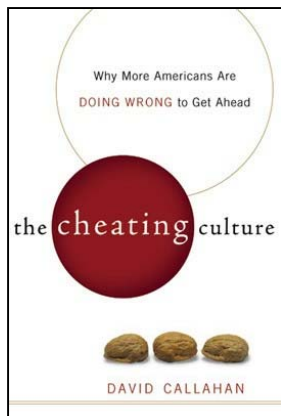

Associate Dean for Student Affairs Jill Miller will send out the annual Honor Code Report to the Law School community.

Professor and State Representative Deborah Ross discusses Ethics and Politics, 12:15 p.m., Room 4048

Recently re-elected state representative Deborah Ross will discuss her personal experiences with ethical situations faced by politicians. Ross is also a consultant for the Duke Kenan Institute for Ethics and former Executive Director of the ACLU of NC. Lunch will be served.

tuesday

Author David Callahan: "The Challenge of Professional Integrity," 4 p.m., Room 3037

Law, medicine, and other professions are beset by ethical misconduct, and cheating has soared among students nationwide. Callahan offers a penetrating look at recent trends and explanations – along with proven strategies for promoting academic and professional integrity. Callahan is a media commentator, founder of NYC think tank Demos, and author of six books. His most recent book, The Cheating Culture: Why More Americans Are Doing Wrong to Get Ahead, has been featured in more than 100 print and broadcast newspapers and magazines, including The New York Times, The Los Angeles Times, Lou Dobbs Tonight, and the Dennis Miller Show. Refreshments will be served.

honor week 2004

NOVEMBER 15-19

opportunities

for ethical

responsibility

and leadership

- Duke Blueprint to LEAD

wednesday

Duke Public Policy Professor Bruce Payne discusses Ethics and Leadership, 12:15 p.m., Room 3043

A faculty member and founding director of the Hart Leadership Program at the Sanford Institute of Public Policy, Payne has been teaching at Duke since 1971 and focuses on issues of moral leadership. Payne believes ethical problems are at the heart of most genuine leadership dilemmas, including conflicts of value and competing notions of virtue. "If our relations of influence are not guided according to some ethically consistent pattern, the chances are that leadership will be manipulative or destructive, and in the long run, unsuccessful." Lunch will be served.

thursday/friday

Honor Week Quiz

Stop by the Honor Week table outside the Law Library to complete an Honor Quiz. The winner, drawn on Friday, will receive a gift certificate of $25 to The Café.