ENVIROMENTAL EXTERNSHIPS

DUKE IN DC

Opportunities in D.C. and federal government, non-profits, advocacy, and non-governmental organizations abound. (Past placements and Duke connections marked with an *):

- U.S. Department of Justice, Environment and Natural Resources Division
  - Environmental Crimes*
  - Environmental Defense
  - Environmental Enforcement
  - Appellate Section
  - Natural Resources
- Environmental Protection Agency*
- Environmental Protection Agency, Environmental Appeals Board
- National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA)*
- White House Council on Environmental Quality*
- Earthjustice*
- Defenders of Wildlife
- Environmental Defense Fund
- NRDC
- Sierra Club Environmental Law Program

LOCAL OPPORTUNITIES

Opportunities in the Triangle Area include state and federal government, criminal defense, prosecutors’ offices, courts, and advocacy organizations.

- U.S. Attorney’s Office in Raleigh – Trial Division (Environmental Crimes)*
- North Carolina Department of Justice, Environmental Division*
- North Carolina Conservation Network*
- Nicholas Institute*
- North American Butterfly Association*
- Southern Environmental Law Center*

About the externship program: Duke Law externships are designed to complement Duke’s robust experiential education offerings. In partnership with the clinics, doctrinal classes, faculty specialists, career services, and public interest programs, externships are designed to immerse students in legal work where they will apply the law outside the classrooms, build networks, and develop their legal skills.

For more information on North Carolina or Duke in D.C. externships, please contact: Anne D. Gordon, Senior Lecturing Fellow and Director of Externships: 919.613.8563 or agordon@law.duke.edu.